Le Conseil des Ministres ayant délibéré ;

L'Assemblée Nationale et le Sénat ayant adopté ;

Vu l'Arrêt RCCB 419 du 1^{er} février 2023 rendu par la Cour Constitutionnelle ,

PROMULGUE :

CHAPITRE I : DE L'OBJET ET DES DEFINITIONS

Article 1 : La présente loi détermine et délimite les provinces, les communes, les zones, les collines et/ou quartiers qui composent le territoire de la République du Burundi.

Article 2 : Au sens de la présente loi, on entend par :

La province : une division territoriale d'un Etat placé sous l'autorité d'un délégué du pouvoir central. C'est le premier niveau de division administrative au Burundi. La province est subdivisée en communes. C'est une structure déconcentrée de l'Etat.

La commune : une entité territoriale décentralisée, dotée de la personnalité juridique et de l'autonomie organique et financière. Elle est subdivisée en zones.

La zone : une circonscription administrative déconcentrée placée sous l'autorité d'un délégué de la commune, intermédiaire entre celle-ci et la colline ou le quartier. Elle est subdivisée en collines et/ou quartiers.

La colline : une cellule de base de l'administration territoriale en milieu rural. Elle regroupe au moins deux sous collines géographiques.

Le quartier : une communauté géographiquement localisée dans une grande ville, une ville, une banlieue ou une zone rurale, parfois constituée d'une seule rue et des bâtiments qui la bordent.

La décentralisation : un processus d'aménagement de l'Etat unitaire qui consiste à transférer des compétences, des pouvoirs et des ressources de l'Etat vers des entités ou collectivités locales distinctes de lui.

La déconcentration : un processus d'aménagement de l'Etat unitaire qui consiste à implanter des autorités administratives représentant l'Etat dans des circonscriptions (entités) administratives locales et est dépourvue d'autonomie et de personnalité morale.

CHAPITRE II : DE LA SUBDIVISION ET DE LA DELIMITATION

Article 3 : Le Burundi est subdivisé en cinq (5) provinces, quarante deux (42) communes, quatre cent cinquante et une (451) zones et trois mille quarante quatre (3044) collines ou quartiers.

Une province est administrée par un gouverneur de province, une commune par un administrateur communal sous la supervision et le contrôle du conseil communal, une zone par un chef de zone, un quartier par un chef de quartier et une colline par un chef de colline.

Section 1 : Des provinces

Article 4 : Les provinces de la République du Burundi sont .
